

Love Isn't Like the Movies

(music by Christopher Winslow; from OMFG!!!, 2011)

Love isn't like the movies no one does what they're supposed to it's a shame, our stab at fame and these delusions we play host to as time moves on, the lights are gone and lovers leave the game

no one says what they're supposed to planets turn, fingers get burned we find we've hurt the ones we're close to we run and hide, our past denied and losers never learn

Can a feeling change, can lives rearrange is the truth we start born to fall apart oh is the ending ever set in stone has everyone gone home?

you don't look like Valentino all our lines aren't so defined and we won't make the magazines, no beneath these tears my makeup smears and drops into my wine

Oh is the ending really set in stone has everyone gone home?

No life isn't like the movies I don't look like Greta Garbo roles get played, then fade away can't every actor be a star, no put on your coat, that's all she wrote no sequel to be made they've all gone home
